Why do you have to get older?

When I first opened my store 15 years ago at Town and Country Village, my one and only golden child Miles learned to walk as if he was on eggshells in aisle one, he found a best friend in Thomas the Tank Engine on a kiddie sized train table and he learned to line up all my wood mounted stamps like soldiers... and then... yep... knock them down like dominoes. Me, I was good at putting them back on the shelf with a patient smile. Fast forward to 2021, he's a high school Junior and he's licensed to drive. Me? Let's just say I see my hair stylist every two weeks to fill in the grey hair. Time sure does fly by and the older he gets, the less I see Miles...

I still think of him as my little baby. I've enjoyed showcasing Miles in my newsletters over the years and I love to hear the comments of... wow! Is that really Miles? He got tall! Thank you for caring about my son, bragging about him is always — a golden moment!

*a little tid bit about me, my family and friends have always called me the Energizer bunny. They say... Don't you ever get tired? Watching you makes me tired. How do you have so much energy after a 10 hour work shift and then bring your work home and still have energy? Or when I worked as a TV reporter... How were you able to do a live shot at 12pm, 5pm, 6pm and 10pm and then still be chirpy? My answer? I guess the batteries in my body are always charged... I thought this is normal... now go get me my cymbals!
