Year of the Tiger

On February 1st, the Lunar calendar will ring in Chinese New Year with the symbol, the Tiger. My husband Ken is a third generation Chinese American, born and raised in Sacramento, he cannot speak Mandarin or Cantonese, but he can whip up a wonderful Chinese dinner or even fold dumplings like you've eaten at Din Tai Fung... he is perfect in every way. Each year, he creates a special Chinese New Year's dinner after his mother could not cook all of the dishes.

It takes a lot of time and effort and the Chinese love everything fresh, not frozen. My son Miles loves this time of the year because there is leftovers for days and he is the recipient of the prized Red Envelopes... lots of them. Lai See as they call it, are lucky money envelopes given to children and "single" adults, that's how my husband's side of the family gives them out. They are crispy "new" bills... what's not to like about that! Yes, our Golden child, is one lucky son!
